STUDENTS SPEAK EXCELLENTLY FOR THEMSELVES Name Be Honored

The most powerful force for moulding the minds, decisions, and actions of men is the magic of masterful speech. Toward the cultivation of such a power of expression in Shortridge students, Clarence Charles Shoemaker, to whom we dedicate our 1941 Annual, has been striving with diligence and distinction for twenty years. Superbly trained in reasoning and oratory, Mr. Shoemaker's debaters have enhanced Shortridge's reputation in forensics by capturing the State Debate Championship in 1939, by participating in the enlarged Tri-State League, and by winning consistently in regular debates. Tested and taught by his rich experience in building our past, he will go forward with Shortridge, wisely guiding us to a fuller knowledge of the Elements of Power.

AND THERE * * NOT SO DISTANT * * LIES OUR LAND

Class Poem

To age, the roar of man-made cannon
Heralds the destruction of yet another dream
Born in the clouds when life was young;
To youth, now giving shape to hopes
Still vague, confused, and seeming part of heaven,
The sickening whine of careening bomb is a challenge
Sad in its method, but compelling.

Blind hate, like a violent volcano
Has incrusted the earth with once-molten lava;
We, now of Shortridge, are witnessing the destruction —
Are fearful lest our dreams lie crushed beneath the ruins.
For but a moment we falter, bewildered by the unforeseen;
Then gradually do we become part of the multitude
Who is bearing the debris away.
The task, at first so burdensome, becomes lighter,
And there, not so distant, lies our land
Somewhat changed, but still intact.

As the steps of marching soldiers
Fall away into endless time
Becoming indistinct and obscure —
So fall and fade the importunate years;
But, ever present, is the eager figure
Of youth, erring occasionally, faltering often,
But with a face made bright
By youthful spirit, courage, and ambition.

LIBRARY LUNACY

I am truly a lover of good literature, especially nice books. I like nothing better than handsome books. They not only give one both an intellectual backdrop and a colorful backdrop, but they look so attractive between book ends.

Ever since I read an essay in English VI by a man named Black or White or some neutral color like that, I have wanted the bookshelf on my desk to reveal my personality and reflect the real me. That is the main motive for the substantial library which reposes undisturbed before me as I write.

I was first concerned with the selection of a suitable pair of book ends. My main desire, as I commented above, was to express my individuality. I had a free rein and so I eschewed the conventionality of the usual bronze Lincoln head book ends and the metal frames commonly found in libraries. I had a mental conception of a big scroll of beaten brass, or a chartreuse enameled conch shell on a base of zaccatilla wood, or perhaps a trumpeting pink porcelain elephant with trunk uplifted and one foot poised upon the binding of the first book at either end. I still have that free rein clutched in my hand, for I have not yet been able to find such book ends. However, I feel that this is the manufacturer's oversight, surely not mine.

Then, dear readers, I set about collecting my collection. Wisely, I chose a volume of academic or scientific lore as my initial requisite. An old family friend, a retired veterinarian, sent me a lovely book on the Fissipedia when he learned of my plight. His notation on the flyleaf told me that it was a suborder of meat eating animals which includes cats and dogs. Otherwise, I should never have known.

The next addition to my library was in the department of political science. I discovered two grade school history books of brilliant hue which offered a beautiful contrast to my window drapes; and then I added my American History textbook by way of filling up space.

I next augmented the assemblage of literature from the international field. It seemed that it should have a whisper of the Old World classics about it, and so to add that trace of European culture, and also for economical reasons, I chose an English-Spanish pocket dictionary which my sister had purchased and used slightly during her visit to Mexico. However, she had not realized the true worth of it for she found that most of the bellhops and cab drivers in Mexico had been educated on Rhodes Scholarships, and so she did not have to grunt or use the sign language at all.

To return to the original safari of thought, I turned to music, speaking figuratively, of course, for who wants to be a boogie-beat? I wanted this book to be the zenith, the piece de resistance, of my collection. For this reason I determined that it should be a new book with a fresh, uncrumpled cover. It was such a job to buy my most important selection. I visited all the bookshops and book departments in town, perused the treatises on classical music with diligence, and caught up on the new installments of my magazine serials while I was about it. At last, I had narrowed my search of authors to Oscar Levant and Benny Goodman. It was quite a struggle, but finally swing lost, and I took the volume "A Smattering of Ignorance" by Mr. Levant. It looked as though it would be hard to read and so I am sure that it is a good book.

No doubt Mr. Goodman's "Kingdom of Swing" was a good book, too. It was thicker and heavier and had marvelous pictures, but it didn't have the pink jacket which is the exact shade of those pink porcelain elephants which I still intend to buy with my graduation money.

As a final supplement to my literature, I added a few books and articles which appealed to my inner soul, and incidentally, filled up more space between my nephew's baby shoe paperweight and the quart jar of strawberry preserves which are serving me as book ends for the time being. My greatest prizes were the "WhoDunIt Omnibus" which I intend to solve some stormy night, a dog-eared copy of Mr. Illiad's "Odd Essays" (or something similar), a pamphlet on cement mixing for post holes from the Home Show, a bulletin on Berkshire hog raising which I had picked up at the State Fair last year, and for trenchant wit, the latest edition of the "Six Hundred Fifty Choice Radio Quips of 1941." (The last edition contains an excellent studio pose of Cary Grant.)

Although it entailed a great amount of effort on my part, I feel that I have assembled a good, well rounded library. I have been persistent in gathering about me some solid, sizable, and rather pretty books. I thrill with pride each time I dust them. I have been thinking lately of adding another shelf, or perhaps, buying a bookcase since I plan to purchase a set of red leather, gilt edged Encyclopedia Brittanica next year — if they do not clash too badly with my wallpaper.

I realize that sometime, dear reader, you will awaken to the joys of possessing nice books. If my little outline has created in you a desire for cultural attainment, I shall feel amply repaid for the time spent in writing my pamphlet.

If you need help in selecting your library, command me, all of you! Please do not hesitate to call on me. Just drop in anytime and I will be glad to show you my literary treasures.

JOSEPHINE SMITH

CALEB MILLS

Looking down the winding path of time we are impressed with the multitude of conveniences which, though unknown to our forbears, are today taken for granted and regarded as necessities.

Practically everything accomplished which has proved to be of lasting and true value has been done with a clear and well-defined purpose in mind. It is the man with a definite goal who really accomplishes something.

Such a man of purpose was Caleb Mills, champion of the cause of free education. Amazed at the amount of illiteracy and ignorance surrounding him, he devoted himself and practically his entire life to its correction.

One of the first teachers and presidents of Wabash College, he did not content himself with this full-time job, but constantly poured out a stream of pamphlets, articles, and essays, all on the theme of free education, for he well realized that only by education could a government "of the people, for the people, and by the people" exist, and be governed intelligently.

He not only pointed out the great need for mass education, but explained by what means this could be financed and accomplished.

Probably the triumph of his life came when Indiana adopted the free school system in 1848. However, upon the accomplishment of this lifelong desire he did not retire to rest on his laurels, but took an active part in devising the new educational system, constantly making criticisms and suggestions and advocating reforms, many of which, considered radical in his time, have recently come to serious consideration.

It was a great step forward when educational leaders realized the value of combining recreation and education. Were Caleb Mills to enter Shortridge today, he would be both amazed and pleased at the ways in which his basic ideas have been carried out. Over its stage are emblazoned his famous words, summing up the great purpose to which he devoted his life,

"A disciplined mind and a cultivated heart are elements of power."

ABRAM C. SHORTRIDGE

In the shadowy throng of the great who have gone down into the annals of our school there looms a man who, having gained his own education by hard work and driving ambition, devoted his life to making facilities for learning more available to others . . . a man who endeared himself to the many pupils he taught, to the many teachers to whom he gave opportunities, and to the many men with whom he was associated in his office of Superintendent of the Indianapolis Public Schools . . . the man who founded our school and whose very name it bears—Abram C. Shortridge. How fitting it would be if somehow he could retrace the avenues of time and, perhaps, find himself sometime here in the corridors of his namesake institution, watching the fulfillment of his dreams of education. What would he say? What would he think?

He would be astonished at the number of pupils enrolled in our school. When Mr. Shortridge first organized his high school in 1864 he realized that only the most advanced pupils were ready to be admitted, and even these had to be coached to get ready for their new courses. Only twenty-eight students formed the first class. Undoubtedly he would view with gratification the fact that thirty-eight hundred young men and women pursue their studies here now.

He might wander through the halls and watch the school at work. He would see the attractive, expertly equipped building; the classrooms, light, clean, and comfortable; the laboratories, efficiency personified; the luxurious auditorium; the spacious gymnasium; the modern cafeteria. Everywhere he would watch the pupils themselves — see them working, playing, laughing, pursuing class politics, aspiring to offices, joining clubs, winning honors . . . see the girls in their soft sweaters and skirts, with their gay made-up faces and curling hair . . . see the boys in their loud shirts and cords, with their fantastic hair-cuts and clod-hopper shoes. He would read the Echo and learn what a "joe" and a "jallopy" are. Yet everywhere he would find a spirit, not only of fun, but of true understanding and high scholarship.

And perhaps he does see and smile with satisfaction.

SUMMA CUM LAUDE

Since September, 1910, Shortridge High School has had a special climate of its own. This has been the air, kindly yet bracing, genial yet stimulating, that establishes itself in the neighborhood of George Buck. For more than three decades Mr. Buck's gifts of integrity, intellect, wit, sympathy, and authority have vitalized Shortridge life. This inspiring atmosphere the pupils have accepted happily and as a matter of natural right; the teachers, happily and with a keen sense of their own and the school's good fortune.

Countless details over the years build up our picture of Mr. Buck — in the auditorium before the Shortridge Service Flag bringing home to light-hearted students in his beautiful and lucid English the patriotic ideal — in conference with a Parent-Teachers' committee on some project for the school's welfare — ably representing Shortridge and the schools in some matter of civic importance or in national educational councils — in his office dispensing even-handed justice. How many a teacher, and pupil, too, recalls these scenes with a smile — the teacher sure of the principal's backing, the pupil sure of a fair decision, and both right! Each sensed Mr. Buck's fairmindedness, his perfect willingness to change his decisions for good reason, and his steady courage in action.

Perhaps more revealing than any formal incidents are Mr. Buck's casual daily contacts as he walks through the halls, now stopping for friendly conversation with some group of young students, now in consultation with a faculty member, now checking some youth who is exceeding the corridor speed limit, now helping untangle some puzzled freshman's locker combination, now in the teachers' dining room making the daily luncheon a social occasion. In these and other glimpses of him one sees the real man; one sees how his qualities seem always to call forth answering qualities in others — loyalty for loyalty, professional zeal for professional zeal, friendship for friendship, and for understanding, devotion.

As some one has said, "It is not only what Mr. Buck does; it is what he is." For the long and happy connection of a great principal with a great school all Shortridgers are grateful.

THE FACULTY

The first Shortridge students to enjoy the kind and understanding influence of George Buck graduated one June evening thirty years ago. This June of 1941 many more of us will leave the school, and as we depart we shall experience almost the same emotions boys and girls felt thirty years ago and ten years ago and a year ago.

But in a deeper sense graduation this June will not be the same, for the Shortridge we take with us in our memory, the school our hearts have come to know so intimately, cannot be the same again. George Buck leaves Shortridge with the Class of 1941.

Time, as is its venerable custom, has wrought changes upon Shortridge ceaselessly during these thirty greatest years of hers; yet despite different buildings, new students and teachers, and added courses of study, the benevolent leadership of Mr. Buck has never permitted the school to alter or forget its signal purpose. Through all material changes Mr. Buck has maintained the Shortridge ideal of giving every youth, through discipline of the mind and cultivation of the heart, power for living.

We have come to know our principal in many different ways. He is unforgettable to some, perhaps, as he smiles benignly upon the frantic 8:15 scholars in the west hall, while others may vividly recall him as he waits among them at the cafeteria counter. But whatever the association, every Shortridger recognizes in Mr. Buck a great man, and, what is more, a good friend.

The thousands of men and women and boys and girls whom he has graduated concur in granting George Buck his diploma in life, summa cum laude.

THE STUDENTS

THE FOURTH "R"

The scene is the organ studio of radio station WIRE. The time just precedes the opening of the regular Thursday evening Shortridge broadcast. A tense feeling pervades the little group.

Betty Jean Miller is waiting at the Hammond electric organ to open the program with the theme song, "In the Land of Milk and Honey"; Charleen Clore has just arrived at the studio from WFBM where she had completed a broadcast at 5:30; Al J. Kettler, Shortridge radio coordinator, ponders over the script, stop watch in hand. Anastasia Schwartzleder, European refugee, who is to narrate the program in French, is the only participant not suffering from a severe case of jitters, as she waits calmly for her cue.

Al Losche, the announcer, enters the studio just before air time after a last minute conference with Carl Bosart, engineer, and Tom Peden, station announcer. Suddenly the strains of a network sign-off theme fill the studio. Station identification follows with an electrical commercial transcription breaking the tension.

The red light flashes on! Anastasia softly murmurs "Le Theatre de l'air de Shortridge." Losche follows with the English translation, "The Shortridge Theatre of the Air." Betty Miller swings in with the organ and another program produced by students and teachers of Shortridge is on the air entertaining Indiana radio listeners.

The Shortridge program has attempted everything conceivable in radio broadcasting to bring its listening audience the cream of Shortridge talent.

Sports devotees will remember the Washington game tragedy last October. Arrangements were made to broadcast a play by play account over WIRE following the game that afternoon. To write the script with the greatest possible accuracy, the staff set up a portable press box on the fifty yard line. It consisted of card table, typewriter, and reams of paper. All went well during the first half. The third quarter was moving along when Charley Cole, burly Washington back, grabbed the ball and started downfield for what appeared to be a certain goal. But the entire Shortridge team directed its effort to running Cole and his associates out of bounds. As luck would have it, Cole met his downfall on top of the portable headquarters and under the Shortridge team. With typewriter and card table demolished, the radio reporters, Losche and Jim Southard, sprang to their feet and finished the script in long hand. It was read on the air in that condition half an hour later and sports fans throughout Indiana enjoyed a refreshing narration of the game.

Still another time near defeat threatened a script writer in covering the Tech - Shortridge basketball game during Christmas vacation for WIRE. Perched high in the gallery under a light so that both gym and typewriter could be seen, the reporter enjoyed success during the Reserve game. But when the Varsity team came on the floor, all the lights in the gallery went out. Stranded, he enlisted the services of Emily Smith, who knew how to type by touch, and the sports review went off on schedule.

Another close call came the afternoon that station officials threatened to cut the program off the air because Katherine Armstrong was playing a selection thought to be copyrighted music owned by ASCAP. The Girls' Glee Club well remembers the day it was required to remove its shoes, en masse, lest the broadcast be disturbed by the noise of fifty shuffling feet.

The radio venture uncovered a wealth of talent in Shortridge students, and of quality excellent enough to provide a quarter hour of lively entertainment each week.

Valuable aid came from the Shortridge faculty. Mr. Kettler served as radio coordinator; Mr. Shultz, as band director; Mr. Wise, as orchestra director; and Mrs. Laura C. Moag and Miss Geraldine Trotter, as ensemble directors.

Perhaps the most beautiful broadcast of the season was the Sibelius program, recorded on the stage of Caleb Mills Hall in December with the student body present. More than two hundred musicians took part in this concert. Other outstanding broadcasts highlighted during the season's activities were the Girls' Glee Club Christmas program; the Voice Ensemble; the twin piano melodies of Bill Carter and Bernie Woerner; and the interesting and novel Math Club program.

To its program of " 'Readin', 'Ritin', and 'Rithmetic,'" Shortridge added a fourth "R", Radio.

THE FORTUNES OF FORENSICS

For two thousand years the debate rostrum has served as the battleground of the intellect. Centuries ago, in the grove of the Academy at Athens, Plato and the Greek youths sought a clearer view of the truth and combatted speciousness and ignorance with the same weapons Shortridgers use today — logical reasoning and free discussion.

Since the turn of the century, Shortridge has enjoyed a national prominence in this highest form of scholastic competition, but we often overlook this former fame in our pride in the successes of present day teams. Only two years ago, in 1939, Shortridge won the first State Debate Championship in Shortridge history. This squad was coached by Clarence C. Shoemaker, to whom this Annual is dedicated, and upperclassmen can well remember the irresistible persuasiveness of Richard Stark and Russell Fee for the affirmative and the devastating logic of Allan Vestal and Marvin Borman for the negative.

What is there more native to Shortridge than that famous old battle cry, "Give 'em the ax, the ax, the ax," and what can conjure up more thrilling moments in the life of our school than this staccato chant? Yet it was first used more than thirty years ago to inspire a debater to win the State Oratorical contest for Shortridge. Claude Bowers, who won that contest at Richmond, became one of our most famous members of the national scene, being the key-noter in the Democratic National Convention in Houston, Texas, and a diplomat and author of several notable works.

It was over two decades ago, in 1919, that the first Shortridge Tri-State Debate contract was made with Walnut Hills High School of Cincinnati and Male High School of Louisville. During these years, William N. Otto, one of Shortridge's most unforgettable men, with Mr. Shoemaker as his associate, coached teams which captured three of the four Tri-State cups which were offered. Throughout the years of success, it has generally been conceded that the secret of Shortridge victories is the highly polished technique of the squad and the manner in which it debates and rounds out its arguments as a smoothly integrated unit. Not long ago Shortridge had an opportunity to see a striking demonstration of the permanence of Shortridge forensic training. When Lyman Hoover, a graduate widely known for his self-sacrificing work as head of the Y.M.C.A. in China, gave an inspirational speech in an auditorium program, speech experts were delighted to note that his excellent speaking style still displayed the manner of delivery he was taught at Shortridge.

Another of Shortridge's debaters, who has won fame in recent years, is Joseph C. Furnas. An article by him which appeared in "Reader's Digest," entitled "—And Sudden Death," shocked all America into a grim realization of the horrors of automobile accidents. When this tract was later published as a pamphlet, it found a wider circulation than any other leaflet except Elbert Hubbard's "A Message to Garcia."

It was only in 1935 that the Tri-State League yielded to the inevitable and allowed girls to take part in this competition, on an equal basis with boys. When the bars were finally dropped, the weaker sex was not found wanting, for they had derived valuable experience from a girls' debating league which had been organized earlier by Mr. Otto.

In the long history of the Tri-State League, there was only one break in the regularly scheduled discussion, and it took nothing short of an act of God to cause it. Male High School of Louisville, because of the ravages of the Ohio River flood of 1937, was forced to cancel its debates in that year.

The year 1932 has been called the "Annus mirabilis" of Shortridge debating, for in that year Curtis Plopper won second place in the National Oratorical Contest held at Springfield, Massachusetts. Charles Feibelman was capturing the State Oratorical Contest held that same year. Triumphs were extended when the debating teams emerged victorious from both of their Tri-State matches and the girls' discussion group won from Bedford and Terre Haute.

The finest tribute that can be paid to our debaters' magnificent accomplishments is that they are sometimes taken for granted. But perhaps it is best that we do not dwell too long or too lovingly on our glorious past, for those achievements, great as they are, pale beside those of the future, when men realize that this freedom to question and discuss indicates the path to broader lands and better days.

FACULTY SPONSORS

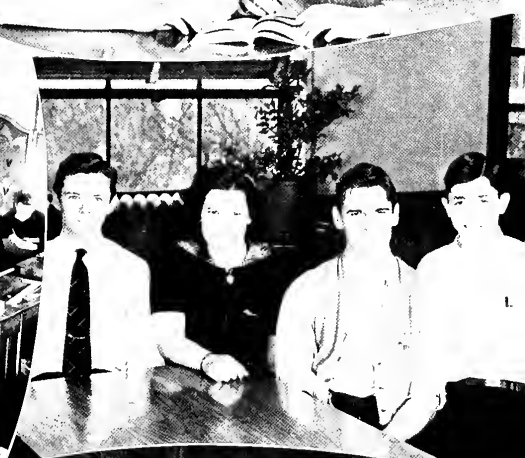

THE ANNUAL

To some Seniors, Shortridge is a place to make grades, while for others it serves as a convenient place to make dates, but to the members of the staff, Shortridge means only a place to work on the Annual. Bob Hendrickson, editor-in-chief of the 1941 yearbook, selected a staff of sixteen department heads. Phil Robertson was business manager, while Jim Southard's sales campaign acquainted students with the fine points of the yearbook. Mary Ann Morrison probably learned more about the Seniors than anyone else through her position as liner editor. Jean Bosson, literary editor, worked to give the book a richer, fresher style of writing; Edwin Kelb, as music editor, described the charms of Shortridge music; and Mary Lu Marshall and her staff recorded the activities of the many clubs gregarious Shortridgers join. Ruth Ann Quick, photography editor, directed the taking of all photographs except Senior portraits, which Joan and Joyce Smith scheduled and mounted. Doris McCullough directed the art work which lends so much beauty and individuality to this 1941 Annual. Editing boys sports, Phil Huston recorded the exploits of our conquering heroes on gridiron, hardwood, and cinder path, and Joan Caughran described the athletic endeavors of the girls. Bill Evans and a typewriter acted as copy editors, while Joan Scott and Annette Short corrected any crossed i's or dotted t's as proof co-editors, and Dorothy Ottinger and Jean Tabbert collaborated on legend writing. Mrs. Mary Dye Beach, as literary sponsor with the aid of Charles J. Wilkerson, was responsible for every word in this book. John R. Kuebler was co-ordinator, specifically the "trouble shooter," but he was also willing to shoot anyone who might delay publication. C. L. Morrison supervised the business department, and Miss Jane Messick directed the art work. Robert C. Grubbs and H. H. Siemers lent invaluable assistance by taking this book's many school pictures, and Harold F. Irby was in charge of the printing. Joel Hadley represents the school administration in Annual publication problems.

SHORTRIDGE DAILY

The Shortridge Daily Echo is the first American high school daily. The Echo merits a journalistic class of its own. As a high school publication, it has no peers. The four page sheet is written and edited by students, under the direction of members of the faculty. Each day's paper has a completely separate staff and working order. The production methods and highlighting features of every Echo are distinctive.

Monday's Echo features a detailed account of the weekend's sports encounter. Friday's gridiron battle or hardwood tussle is given a play-by-play treatment by an active sports staff. Monday's front page carries a forecast of the week's events. The popular "What a Week" appears on the second page, and the "Magazine Rack" is an old friend. The third page presents a "Barbie" feature. Mr. Kettler and Mr. Campbell preside over Monday's division of Shortridge's fourth estate.

The mid-week publication capitalizes on the abundant club news for its front page offerings and features a story on the approaching game. Extra-curricular activities are numerous during the first part of the week, and they make good copy for Wednesday's. The third page spotlights the adventures of Henry Danks, whose name is a Shortridge household word. Miss Montgomery is the sponsor.

The format of Thursday's Echo departs from custom and features a signed column, "A.M.," on the first page. Inclusion of this column changes the makeup slightly. Thursday's Echo avoids the conventional journalistic pyramid and specializes in three tier headlines. The inside pages embrace the "Elko Thursday Times," a regular offering, and "Names in the News." Miss Bruce sees that the copy gets to press on time.

The last Echo of the week runs a banner story on Friday afternoon's game. A front page column, "What's News," appears regularly. The second page presents "Preview Patter," a motion picture forecast, next week's schedule of extra-curricular clubs, and the city's Civic Program. A featured sports column appears on the third page. Miss Fout and Miss Hamilton oversee the publication of Friday's Echo.

EDITORIAL BOARD

The chair behind the horseshoe is the seat of editorial authority on the Shortridge Daily Echo. From there the editor directs reporters, makes assignments, and plots the layout of the first page. There is no real difference in the planning and publishing of various issues of the Echo. Friday's and Monday's play up the sport story, and Wednesday's gets the club news, but every editor has to know where to look for news and how to put it into print. Editors come up the hard way through long years of reporting and word-counting, finally to reach the chair behind the horseshoe.

PRESS CLUB

A forthright attack on the evils of the Shortridge Daily Echo is the campaign of the Press Club. Remedies for second-page doldrums and third-page frivolity are pursued by the members of every Echo staff. The competitive spirit of the Press Club Contest, in which articles published by the Echo are judged according to journalistic standards, creates an interest in good newspaper writing. The spring banquet is the climax of the year's activities. The officers for the year were Bob Hendrickson and Gordon McKinney, presidents, and Mary Ann Morrison and Mary Worsham, secretaries. Charles J. Wilkerson is sponsor of the club. The program chairmen were Betty Lee Snyder and Joan Smith.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Shortridge Student Council is the student representative body of the school. The organization is sponsored by James C. Beane. Its purpose is to assist in the promotion of projects which involve the co-operation of the entire student body, and to encourage good citizenship. For several years the Student Council has supervised the cafeteria seating, provided hostesses at the Meridian street door, and sponsored outstanding auditoriums. The membership consists of five Seniors, five Juniors, three Sophomores, and two Freshmen. The presidents of the Junior and Senior classes are ex-officio members. The officers of the Council are president, Fred Rassman; vice-president, Patsy Bishop; and secretary, Kay Nolan. Members from the upper classes are elected at the regular class elections; those from the freshman and sophomore classes are elected by the Council from a group of students nominated by the Faculty Student Affairs Committee. The candidates from the freshman and sophomore classes were entertained with a tea in the teachers' cafeteria. An annual picnic is held in the latter part of the spring semester.

MEMBERS:

Seniors: Barbara Kiger, Fred Rassmann, Mary Ann Morrison, Arthur Gipe, Ann Cantwell. Alternate, Bob Parr.

Juniors: Patsy Bishop, Vic Cardarelli, Carolyn Kiger, Al Moorman, Ginny Thompson. Alternates, Joe Pratt, Ned Merrell.

Sophomores: Kay Nolan, Phyllis Dell, Paul Wadleigh. Alternates, Marjorie Foltz, Bruce Hilkene.

TRI-STATE DEBATE

"Resolved, that the powers of the Federal government should be increased" was the 1941 question argued by the Tri-State Debate teams. Our teams, directed by Clarence C. Shoemaker, defeated three of the five opponents. Our negative team, composed of Phil Robertson and Elliot Goodman, won a decision over Technical in the first debate. In another debate with Technical, held in their auditorium, the Shortridge affirmative team won. In a pair of debates, held in the Shortridge auditorium, March 28, the Shortridge affirmative team, Elizabeth Josey and Bert Goldberg, defeated the negative team of Oakwood High School, Dayton, Ohio. The same day Shortridge defeated the Frankfort, Kentucky, team. On April 4 our affirmative team, John Kirkhoff and Bert Goldberg, were defeated at Cincinnati by the Walnut Hills team. The members of the negative team were defeated on an extremely small margin at Lexington, by Henry Clay, Kentucky state champion.

SENATE

This has been an unusual, exciting, and precedent breaking year in the fifty-fourth session of the United States Senate of Shortridge High School. For the first time in its history the Senate has adopted a pin. Records were established along attendance lines when sixty-one new members joined at one meeting after talks in 9B Conference groups. The roster was soon completely filled. Therefore, the Senate borrowed an idea from the United States Senators and adopted a bill which created pages for Shortridge Senators. A number of the Senators visited the State Legislature several times to observe actual legislative procedure. Some of the bills submitted before the Senate this year were on anti-conscription, anti-war, and anti-liquor and tobacco advertising. The club is patterned after the United States Senate in order to give the members an opportunity to get experience in parliamentary procedure and debating. The organization, which is now sponsored by Russell V. Sigler, of the history department, was founded by Miss Laura Donnan in 1887. Her tireless efforts to keep it educational as well as recreational are being carried on by Mr. Sigler with the splendid help of the members. In the past it has greatly aided those who were interested in governmental affairs.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS

Special contest speakers were selected to represent Shortridge in local and district oratorical contests.

Albert Losche placed fourth in the American Legion Constitutional Oratorical Contest, March 28. He received medals in the county, district, and zone contests at the World War Memorial.

John Kirkhoff, who won second place and was awarded a semester scholarship to an Indiana college, and Marilyn Templeton were in the finals of the Indianapolis Church Federation Peace Oratorical Contest. Phil Robertson, who won fourth place, and Elliot Goodman entered the Indiana State Extemporaneous Speaking Contest at Depauw University, April 12. Bert Goldberg, who represented Shortridge and District VI in the Indiana State Discussion Contest at Indiana University, April 3, was one of the six state finalists.

Croquis members, who make a hobby of their work, are sketching models and outdoor scenes for the third year guided by Miss Jane Messick. For the first time the club held an exhibit in the Selleck Art Gallery, with drawings and paintings representing members of the club. Taking time out from their own art, they visited the offices of the Indianapolis Star, the Indianapolis Engraving Company, the Hoosier Salon at Block's, and the John Herron Art Institute to view paintings by British masters.

The members of the Greenwich Club become familiar with the themes and interpretations of poetry. The club fosters those who seek greater appreciation of poetry's dulcet tone. During the year the club has discussed religion and war as poetic themes. Poetic works approaching these subjects were introduced. "The Foet's Shelf," a feature of the Shortridge Echo, publishes the writings of members who are interested in composition. Miss Young, the sponsor, aids this work.

The Stamp Club was formed to promote interest in the hobby of stamp collecting. The members meet in room 314 each Tuesday with Willard Gambold, the sponsor, to trade and exhibit stamps. An annual field trip to the post office was made. The philatelists exhibited rare stamps and interesting covers in several show windows during the year. They sold stamps in a booth for the Family Frolic, and realized a nice sum for student aid.

The Camera Club was organized to give an opportunity to learn about photography through actual experience. The club members hear lectures by talented photographers and discuss their own problems. Miss Custer, of the mathematics department, described the Mortenson School of Photography in California. Members enjoyed a series of lectures from the Eastman Kodak Company, illustrated by motion pictures. Robert C. Grubbs of the physics department is sponsor of the club. A hike was taken in the spring so that members might photograph outdoor scenes.

FRENCH

Le Cercle Francais, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Weathers and Miss Maranville, is a newly organized club. It was begun with the idea of giving further opportunity to hear and speak the French language, to learn more about French civilization and culture, to increase interest in reading French literature, and to implant interests which will carry over into later life. The business of the meeting is conducted in English and the program and minutes in French. One of the many projects of the club was the sending of aid to French refugees. The strong "esprit de corps" of the club has been admirable and is largely due to the able leadership of its officers and sponsors.

GERMAN

The German Club, under the leadership of Miss Louise Reiter, is one of the most active clubs of the school. Each year it participates in the Family Frolic. This year the members sponsored "The International Casino" in which ninety pupils took part. In the fall and spring they held parties for the new members. They had a Christmas party complete with a Santa. Their annual window display, another Christmas project, was a peasant window through which a Christmas tree with gifts to the faculty could be seen. In the spring a tea was given for the mothers of the members of the German department. They sponsor a baseball team whose only trouble is getting competition.

S. P. Q. R.

The Senatus Populusque Romanus, organized several years ago to promote an interest in classical subjects outside the class room, has become one of the most outstanding of Shortridge clubs. Continuing with the scholarship project started last year, the club again raised sufficient funds for the award by the presentation of the movie "Robin Hood." The one hundred dollar prize is awarded to the person receiving the highest grade in a competitive Latin examination. The test is conducted by the Latin department. Besides the meetings when guest speakers were present, the club's activities also included a Christmas party held in the teachers' cafeteria, a "Battle of the Sexes," and a picnic in the spring. Miss Josephine Davidson is the sponsor.

SPANISH

Spanish students, interested in putting their knowledge to practical use, meet together in an attempt to master the language and to study the countries in which it is spoken. Robert Ireland, U.S.N., a former resident of South America, addressed the club on Panama. The members were entertained by colored slides of South American scenes and by phonograph records of rhythmic Latin music. At other meetings they played games, solved crossword puzzles, and participated in a quiz hour. Spanish students who have had three or more semesters of the subject are eligible for entrance. The club is sponsored by Miss Hazel Whisenand of the modern language department.

MATH

This year the Math Club, one of the oldest organizations in Shortridge, celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. During the year the members were entertained by Walter H. Carnahan, who addressed them twice; by Colin L. Lett, who spoke on the tricks in mathematical problems; by Frank B. Wade, who talked on synthetic gems; by C. L. Morrison, who spoke about a new number system using the base two; by Walter C. Geisler who spoke on gems in relation to mathematics; and by H. H. Seimers, who told about Galileo and demonstrated the law of falling bodies. Several members presented a radio program over the Shortridge Theater of the Air; other gave a program before the Indiana Council of Mathematics Teachers. The sponsor is Miss Ellen Ocker.

HISTORY

The History Club, sponsored by Paul Seehausen, began its active year with an interesting talk by Miss Elsie Mae Astleford, exchange teacher from Hawaii. Her subject was the "History and Government of Hawaii." An historical movie was the highlight of another of the club's meetings. The club also visited the Indiana State Library this spring. Several members of the club participated in the Indiana Junior Historical Society's convention held at Technical High School. One meeting that caused much discussion among the members was the Willkie versus Roosevelt debate, which took place before election. Judge Robertson presided. Bill Evans pled for Willkie and Joan Caughran for Roosevelt. The initiation was held March 7, at the home of Mary Jo McGuire. The spring party was at Joan Miller's, Fort Benjamin Harrison.

DRAMA LEAGUE

The Senior Drama League, under the sponsorship of Miss Eleanor Dee Theek of the English department, was divided into several groups this year. Each group had a director and presented a play for the entertainment of the other members. Among the guest speakers was Richard Hoover, director of the Civic Theater, who spoke concerning summer theaters. The Drama League presented a play for the Fiction Club's Christmas party. At the club's own party a play entitled "Christmas Party" was given. This play was later taken to Terre Haute for the Annual Speech Arts Festival, and it ranked fourth in the state-wide contest. Bill Scott won individual honors, and Sid Tuckman, Jenny Lind Duncan, and Katherine Hill received honorable mention. The purpose of the organization is to promote interest in and appreciation of drama.

FICTION

The Fiction Club offers a program of "renown, 'riting, and repartee." Each has a part in the year's activities. All members work on material for the Christmas Echo, the club's special literary project. Writing is encouraged within the club, and the try-out stories themselves are of high rating. This enterprising group invited Gilbert Forbes, radio commentator, to speak to the students of Shortridge. His address was one of the highlights of the year. The Fiction Club authored and dramatized a gay-nineties melodrama for the Family Frolic. Handlebar moustaches, the mortgage, and Little Nell were the hits of the show. An early fall gathering for a weiner roast and hike at Emily Smith's country cabin, two social meetings, and a spring picnic were parts of the varied program. Miss Ruth Armstrong is sponsor of the club.

The purpose of the Chemistry Club is to give pupils a chance to study the industrial phase of chemistry and to perform individual experiments not studied in the class room. This year the club visited the Bell Telephone Company and the Fairmont Glass Works. Mr. Davidson, of the Riley Chemical Company, spoke about the uses of coal tar. Delegates were sent to the Indiana Junior Academy of Science of which the club is a charter member. Max Marsh represented the club with a talk on semi-precious gems. For the past eight years Miss Lois E. Martin has acted as club sponsor, but at the beginning of the spring semester R. W. Woline became sponsor.

COIN

The Coin Club, under the sponsorship of Al J. Kettler and Richard Woline, has recently been organized by pupils who wish to share and enjoy their hobby with others. Their meetings give them the opportunity to exchange ideas, to trade duplicate coins, and to learn their histories. Emmett Rice talked on the subject, "Romance of Coins," and displayed his coin collection. L. H. Riggs, President of the Indianapolis Coin Club, and W. E. Pollard, local collector, addressed them. The club also arranged a window display. The members are Dorothy Brabender, Robert Gemmer, Bill Gibson, Betty Lou Mansfield, Ann Morse, Paul Myers, Tom Campbell, Bob McGuire, Bill Wells, John Wilson, Bill Kimler, and Creighton Kimler.

The purpose of the Mythology Club is to become acquainted with mythology. The study of myths is important for many fields of learning, as mythology correlates with the studies of English, Latin, Greek, art, music, and history. The club held two parties last year, one of which was a Christmas party. The other was a dinner at the home of Miss Rupp. This semester quiz contests were held. Club members provided the questions on mythology which were used in the contest. Three prizes were given to the members having the highest points. The members also gave plays based on the myths they were studying. The sponsor of the club is Miss Laura Rupp.

CHESS

Approximately thirty-two chess fiends meet to wrack their brains over agonizing plays and compare notes every Thursday. The constitution of the club provides that the members must take part in a tournament at least every six weeks. They have matched wits with the King and Sha-mat Clubs. These charter members organized the club for lovers of chess, which has risen so rapidly in popularity in recent years. The membership is limited to thirty-two. There are no dues, no officers, nothing except their chess boards and trusty kings and knights. The sponsor of the club is Enoch D. Burton of the mathematics department.

SENIOR EQUESTRIENNE

Members of the Senior Equestrienne Club, enthusiastic riders who are interested in improving their horsemanship, ride on Wednesday at Arlington Stables during spring and fall. The winter months are spent under the able instruction of Mrs. Margaret Feore, who has been called one of the four best riders of Indiana. The members give dinners before the monthly Arlington tournaments, in which the club is always well represented. Patty Glossbrenner and Barbara Hess have won first prizes in these tournaments. During spring vacation the members enjoyed an all-day ride to Indian Lake. This is followed by a steak fry. Mrs. Thelma Clarke, of the physical education department, is sponsor.

JUNIOR EQUESTRIENNE

The Junior Equestrienne Club, which is under the sponsorship of Mrs. Thelma Clark of the physical education department, is open to membership of freshmen and sophomore girls. This is the third year of activity for the club. Weekly rides at the Arlington Stables are enjoyed by the members. Their instruction in the ring and horse show riding was received from Mrs. Margaret Feore. Club members also participated in the Arlington Riding Tournaments in a special class for members of the Junior Equestrienne Club. A club supper preceding the tournaments is one of the club's main activities. In their junior year in Shortridge the young horse enthusiasts may join the Senior Equestrienne Club.

TECHNOLOGY

Boys who are seriously planning to take up engineering as a life work have organized the Technological Club in order that they may fit themselves with a good high school foundation for this college course. The club members become familiarized with college entrance requirements, and plan beneficial courses of study. They have done statistical work on organizing requirements information. The requirements set up at Purdue were explained by Colin L. Lett, of the mathematics and mechanical drawing departments. In their study of engineering as a profession, they visited the American Lead Company of Indianapolis. The club is sponsored by Colin L. Lett, while Gordon O. Johnson of the mechanical drawing department acts as advisor.

ARCHERY

The Archery Club offers to Shortridge boys and girls, both experts and beginners, an opportunity to enjoy this sport. The club began its year with a talk by J. W. Lincoln, president of the Indianapolis Archery Club, who discussed the history and the art of shooting and demonstrated the different types of shots. The club shoots at the Riverside Park outdoor ranges during favorable weather. Each spring a tournament is held which features competitive shooting and variety contests. The club requires that members own their own equipment, and several of the members are interested in making their own. Miss Kathryn Thompson of the Girls' gym department is sponsor of this club.

PADDLE

The Boys' Paddle Club, one of Shortridge's most recently organized clubs, was first sponsored by Richard Woline of the chemistry department. J. B. Moore became the club's sponsor during the spring semester. The purpose of the club, which was founded by its present president, is to afford enjoyment and to develop skill in the game of ping pong. Membership in the organization is open to all boys who are interested in ping pong and who show that they are capable players. Each Thursday a meeting is held in the projection room. The boys sponsor and take part in tournaments, both inside and outside of school. Tournament winners have been Bob Hull and Harry Cooler.

KARTUNE

The Kartune Klub, sponsored by Miss Essie Long, provides an opportunity for those who are interested to enjoy cartooning. The purpose of the club is to encourage the members in the art and to develop their skill. They draw witty and clever posters for the school and work on contests in and out of school. They add a little humor to the more serious side of the club, class, and school work and often point a moral. The club members strive to make art felt in the drawing of humorous subjects and to improve the comic-strip type of art. They feel that our funny paper pictures have possibilities for artistic expression.

GIRLS' BOWLING LEAGUE

The Girls' Bowling League, sponsored by Miss Eleanor Richwine, was the first high school girls' league organized in the state. All members are on one of the competitive teams into which the whole group is divided. Norma Oburn, Billie Martin, Mary Lambertus, June Goodrich, Marthabelle Oren, Wanda Scheiring, Mildred Cox, and Martha Moore are the team captains. At the halfway mark Team IV, captained by Mary Lambertus, with Grace Yovanovich, Amelia Tiplich, and Lura Roberson were leading. Mary Catherine Bach had the highest individual average. The Women's International Bowling Congress, Inc., awarded them the Moral League Sanction. They also awarded pins to the winning team. The club fosters good sportsmanship and promotes skill in bowling.

BOYS' BOWLING LEAGUE

The Boys' Bowling League meets at the Parkway Alleys each Tuesday from November to March. In keeping with the martial trend of the times, the teams this year were named the Spitfires, Blitzkriegs, Stukas, Cruisers, Destroyers, Dreadnaughts, Tanks, and Torpedoes. The club's aims are to give its members the chance to learn to bowl well, and to provide pleasant recreation. The club awards prizes for high scores and outstanding performances. At the end of the season medals are awarded to the winning team and to the individual having the highest average. A special handicap tournament is held in April. Lester Groth, the sponsor, is assisted by P. Ward Holaday.

PRE-TIME

The purpose of the Pre-Time Club is to study plants and animals that have lived during past geological ages. At the meetings the members and speakers from the science departments give talks on various subjects dealing with prehistoric life. Each member is given a "Saurien Appellation" or name of a prehistoric dinosaur. The club is noted for its unique ritual. The emblem is "Old Siegosaurus," and a novel pin has been made to represent this dinosaur. This fall they collaborated with the Chemistry Club to present the Bomb Shelter at the Family Frolic. The club has a large collection of pictures, charts, and fossils. Howard Wright, of the biology department, is the sponsor.

ATHLETIC ASSISTANTS

Nine girls work tirelessly in the athletic office daily during each period and conference. Supervised by Simon P. Roache, of the mathematics department and Russel S. Julius, athletic department, they have many duties. They assign lockers, hand out the combinations, collect and refund money for hall and gym lockers, help pupils with stubborn locks, and keep the records. The girls held their Christmas party at conference in the athletic office for the coaches and heads of that department. The assistants who are seniors are Lucille Weaver, Leslie Weaver, Norma Oburn, and Joan Parr. The other girls are Sally Stewart, Carolyn Coxen, Marianne Buschman, Madonna Elrod, Mary Jane Catterson, and Barbara Warne.

SPORTS SCRIBES

Three years ago Ralph Hesler and Sol Blickman decided to form a club composed of the sports writers from each of the five daily Echoes. Ten columnists, two from each staff, are carrying on their idea in the Sports Scribes Club. The boys attempt to cut out repetition of sports material in the Echo, to individualize their columns, and to improve the quality of sports features. The members compile information concerning our opponents, and tabulate records of previous games. They strive to draw the interest of the student body to sports events and to increase patronage. William Merrill, safety and physical education teacher, is the sponsor.

DEAN OF GIRLS AND ASSISTANTS

Mrs. Della Thompson, Dean of Shortridge girls, gives encouragement and advice to the girls on their personal, social, or moral problems. Mrs. Thompson selects her assistants from volunteers who work for the experience they receive and for the many opportunities of making social contacts. They operate the Lost and Found department, receive callers for Mrs. Thompson, and perform a number of duties, without receiving school credit or pay for their work. This year's assistants are Virginia Armstrong, Josephine Swearingen, Betty Jane McDowell, Justine Yakey, Jo Ella Yakey, Eloise Gullion, Lottie Partlow, Dorothy Burget, Virginia Brown, Jeanne Rybolt, Virginia Kremer, Marilyn Hooley, Betty Willingham, and Annette Short.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Economics Club assumed a cosmopolitan air this year when it held a Mexican dinner at the home of Katherine Bullington and a Hawaiian tea at which Miss Elsie Astleford, an exchange librarian from Hawaii, described home-making on the Islands. On the home front, the girls sold cookies in the cafeteria, and at the Family Frolic helped sponsor the Fish Pond. Other meetings featured field trips to a bakery, the Real Silk Manufacturing Company, a charm school, dress and personality, and hobbies. During the Indiana State Teachers' Convention in September, Miss Dorthea Faige, sponsor, sent as delegates, Madonna Elrod and Erma Kendrick, to the State Home Economics Association of Student Clubs.

GIRL SCOUT

The Senior Girl Scout Club, of which all Senior Girl Scouts in Shortridge may be members, meets twice each month on Thursday. Mrs. Jean Prettyman, a faculty member of the biology department, is the sponsor. Again this year the Gay Nineties Cafe co-sponsored by both the Girl and Boy Scout Clubs was a favorite at the Family Frolic. Klondike, Alaska, was the setting of the cafe and Klondike Kate, Jane Strohm, was mistress of ceremonies. The entertainment, which was typically Gay Nineties, consisted of singers, dancers, and an unusual band. The year's activities have included a party for all the freshmen Girl Scouts eligible to membership in the club and a spring picnic.

The Shortridge Chapter of the Junior Red Cross Association was organized in 1936. This organization, a member of the Junior Red Cross in Washington, D.C., is sponsored by Mrs. Opal G. Conrad, with Miss Lorree M. Maranville and Cletis H. Shouse acting as co-sponsors. Some of the activities of the club are corresponding with foreign countries and sending Christmas boxes to these foreign lands. Their local work has been sending Christmas boxes and favors to veterans, scrapbooks to Riley Hospital, Christmas stockings to day nurseries, and giving twenty local girls a complete Christmas. All of this work is carried on by the contributions of the Shortridge student body.

FIRST AID ASSISTANTS

Girls who have taken Home Nursing are eligible to become First Aid assistants. They serve under the direction of the school nurses, Miss Moran and Miss Gaskill. Assistants are chosen for their proficiency and aptitude. They put into practice the knowledge gained in Home Nursing. The girls are on duty each period of the day. They help the students who become ill during school. The First Aid assistants were Iella Ruley, Olga Elofson, Dorothy Kaelin, Martha Spridgon, Doris Walker, Patricia O'Hara, Mae La Vonne Hamilton, Mary L. Miller, Dorothy Gill, Marilyn Meyers, Loyzelle Pennington, Etelka Steffey, Margaret Poppenseaker, Mary Lois Lee, Martha Brown, Margaret Huber, Helen Barry, Mary Kem, Evelyn Mitny, Mabel Keenaugh, and Arnella Moore.

BOY SCOUT

This year the Boy Scout Club took up the study of reptiles in order to prepare its members to pass the various divisions of the Merit Badge. Scouts, under the guidance of Donald Klopp, acquaint themselves with the various reptiles, especially snakes and other species which are found in our neighborhood. They learn the antidotes for poisonous bites, how to care for live reptiles, the life history of each species and their external features. Along the line of duty they cleaned the campus of its rubbish and waste paper and put up signs in the bird sanctuary. They collaborated with the Girl Scouts to present the "Gay Nineties Cafe" at the Family Frolic.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS

The Campfire Girls have a group at Shortridge under the guidance of Miss Dorthea Paige. The club meets each Monday night at the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church. For their Birthday Project, the girls have followed Treasure Trails through the study of the art and culture of England, and our neighbor country, Mexico. Carrying out this theme, the club has planned field trips to the Benjamin Harrison home and other treasures of Indianapolis. Beside the general organization projects of Treasure Trails, the girls have been knitting sweaters and afghans for the Red Cross. Camp Delight is the scene of much activity when the girls camp there in the spring.

HI TRI CLUB

The sixtieth anniversary of the Hi-Tri was celebrated in April by our chapter with its own party and a city-wide luncheon and vesper service. Two dances at the "Y," a play entitled "The Right Answer," a style show, a talk by Miss Sally Spencer, a make-up artist, round table discussions, a pot-luck supper, a tea, and a Christmas party at the home of Miss Dale Waterbury of the home economics department, were its activities. The club, formerly known as Girl Reserves, is sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. for high school girls to further an interest in school and Y.W.C.A. affairs. It meets each Wednesday under the guidance of Mrs. F. L. Goodman.

TRUE BLUE OFFICERS

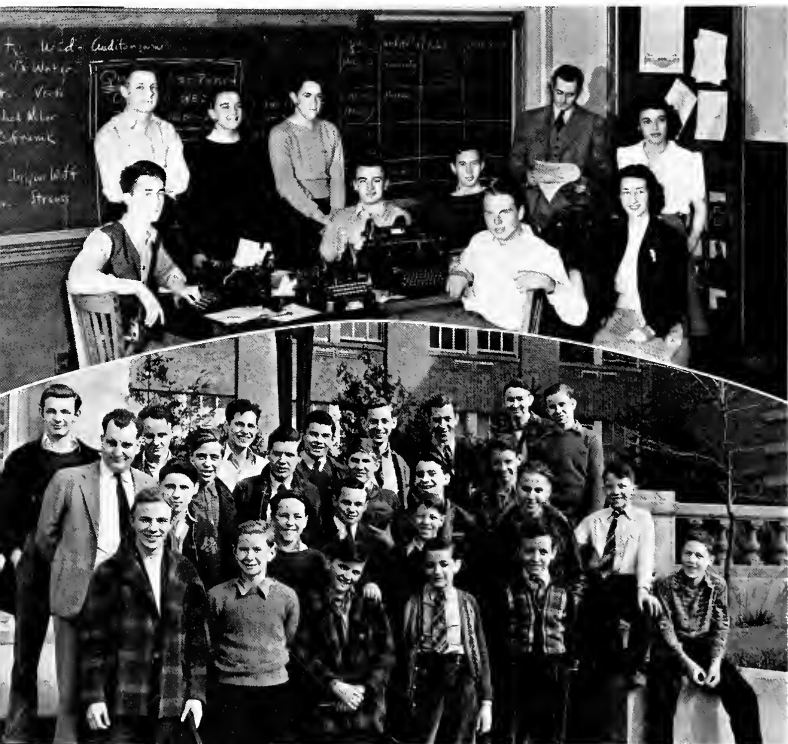

The president, Annette Short, was responsible for directing all five departments of the True Blue Club, whose officers were chosen by Mrs. Della Thompson, sponsor. Martha Moore, head of the five hundred Big Sisters, and her assistants, Eloise Gullion and Jo Ella Yakey, supervised the work with the incoming Freshmen. Two parties, one a style show tea, the other a picture show, were given under the direction of Margaret Kime. Betty Willingham, Prudence Todd, and Jo Ellen Everson had charge of the Financial department and cleared one hundred thirty-five dollars. The notes of condolence were written by Justine Yakey. Joan Dearmin, Marilu Dreiss, and Jeanne Rybolt composed the Newcomers Committee.

CORRESPONDENCE CLASS

The Correspondence Class, under the supervision of Al J. Kettler, Shortridge publicity director, is an invitational credit bearing course for advanced journalism students whose members are assigned as correspondents to the three downtown dailies and seven neighborhood weeklies. The members of the staff are Gordon McKinney, The Indianapolis Star city desk; Fred Rassmann, Star sports desk; William M. Evans, Indianapolis News; Joe Pratt, Indianapolis Times, North Side Press, and Broad Ripple Press; Bette Manthei, North Side Topics; Goldie Katz, Spectator; Ruth Ann Quick, North Side Lookout; Jack Peck, South Side Press and Irvington Review; James Southard, athletic liaison writer; and Albert Losche, radio liaison writer.

PRINTERS' PI

This course is the only machine shop work which Shortridge offers. The Printers' Pi is organized by students in the printing classes. They write and set up their own stories and articles for a newspaper which is published two or three times a semester. From this practical experience the boys interested in printing learn type-setting and the make-up of a newspaper. The type is set up by hand in class and the pages are put together after school. The students understand the mechanical side of journalism after the publication of this paper. They improve greatly after seeing their own mistakes in print. The paper is under the direction of Harold Irby.

RIFLE TEAM

For the first time in the history of Shortridge, the school has a rifle team. This newest sponsored club was organized in April of this year. Every Tuesday and Thursday the members meet in the school's rifle range to fire under the expert advice of Sergeant Albert Neff. Miss Charlotte Bruce is the faculty sponsor.

Practice firing scores were recorded and the fifteen girls with the highest scores met fifteen of the R.O.T.C. officers. Sophomores and Juniors are particularly urged to join, so that they may shoot in scheduled meets next fall.

Shortridge has now joined the ranks of high schools who enjoy this sport.

FENCING

The Fencing Club, sponsored by C. L. Morrison, meets each Tuesday afternoon in the Projection room. The club was organized to promote efficiency in the art of fencing. Roy Aberson, a representative of the Indiana Fencing Corps, has been giving instructions to the members. The club awards cups and pins to its members for general efficiency in fencing. The "followers of the foil" of Shortridge High School give an annual fencing exhibition with Park School. The Shortridge boys "foiled" their rivals' hopes when they triumphed by a 10-5 score at this year's meet, which was held at Park. The club has attended many exhibitions at the Naval Armory in Riverside.

THE MUSIC

"Music hath charms." The truth of this is ever obvious to us all. We unconsciously straighten our shoulders and forget our petty problems and grievances when we hear inspiring music. We have a feeling of good will, of strength, and of patriotism. Human moods and feelings are perfectly expressed by music. Throughout the years we have come to lean more and more upon music for expression and entertainment, until today it is an absolute necessity. Fully realizing this growing interest, modern schools have formed bands, orchestras, and musical organizations, in which the student may learn the fundamentals, and put them into practice under actual conditions. Shortridge has assembled a music department which is truly outstanding. The Shortridge Band of one hundred pieces, under the baton of Robert J. Shultz, has attracted much favorable comment this year upon their excellent performances and varied formations on the football field. Attending all home basketball games, the band helped lend that air of enthusiasm which sparks a team on to victory. Their other activities included playing at several P. T. A. meetings and numerous auditoriums, taking part in the Music Festival, and the nation-wide celebration of Sibelius Day. On this memorable occasion a record was made of the band, together with Shortridge choral groups, which was broadcast over "The Shortridge Theater of the Air." The Brass Ensemble, a picked group of brasses from the "A" band, has performed for various lodges and luncheon clubs. Another outstanding musical organization of Shortridge is The Shortridge Orchestra, under the direction of Will F. Wise. It has given a number of brilliant concerts for auditoriums and teachers' meetings, and took part in the Christmas program and the Spring Festival. A new and novel organization has been formed, called the "Shortridge Singing Strings," composed of sixteen violins and a piano. The orchestra closed a highly successful season with the playing of the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" at the graduation of the 1941 Senior Class. Probably one of the most difficult, and also one of the most beautiful effects possible to achieve is that of a combination of an orchestra, or band, together with vocal groups. This has been done this year in both the Sibelius Day Celebration, and the Christmas program. Much credit for these memorable performances should be given to Mrs. Laura C. Moag, director of The Choir, Voice Ensemble, and Boys' Glee Club. These versatile organizations have distinguished themselves at many churches, clubs, and social organizations in and about the city. Another of our Shortridge vocal groups to achieve wide acclaim has been the Girls' Glee Club, a group of fifty-eight girls selected by audition. Under the direction of Miss Geraldine Trotter, this bevy of charming girls has taken part in the Spring Music Festival, the Christmas celebration, and a number of programs for various civic organizations. Through the cooperation of competent instructors and interested students throughout all our nation, a new musical culture is being assured the world of tomorrow. A new culture, based upon the fundamental requirements of music — thoroughness and proficiency. Shortridge may indeed look with pride upon the achievements of its music department.

Several years ago a new and unique type of club, the Baton, joined the vast Shortridge group of activities. A striking example of the rising interest in music and musical organizations, the club has gradually increased until today the activities of its ninety members are closely watched by the entire student body. The club, sponsored by Miss Geraldine Trotter, has had a most successful season. They provided the Family Frolic "Baton Hour of Melody," in which they played to capacity audiences. They presented Bomar Cramer, pianist, in a recital, the profits of which were applied to perpetuate the Shortridge music library. Many interesting programs have been furnished by guest speakers and by club members.

MARCHING BAND

The Shortridge Marching Band of one hundred and ten pieces, under Robert J. Shultz's commendable leadership, showed a lot of "oomph" the past year. Their stimulating music, was appreciated by the entire student body. Max Walters was drum major of this year's outfit, Tom McAninch was Captain, and Royce Stokes and Robert Perine were Lieutenants of first and second platoons respectively. The band, with its tricky marching steps, flashing innovations of flag and baton twirling, and special marching tunes, all specially scored and memorized, added endless color to athletic engagements. This group of inspired musicians assisted the R.O.T.C. in Federal Inspection and were greatly complimented by the inspecting Colonel.

OFFICERS

Those few stalwart men who served most industriously through the years were rewarded with appointments to the Officers' Club. The fellows fortunate enough to receive this highly bestowed honor are Jack Davis, Honorary Colonel, Max Marsh, Honorary Major, and William Lemen, Active Commander; Captains Colin Dyer, Scott Christie, Donald Summers, Paul Schwindler, Joe Raub, and Gordon McKinney; First Lieutenants, Harry McGee, Jack Peck, Jim Carlin, Gordon Mason, Kenneth Spencer, Joe Roemmer, and Donald Tudor; Second Lieutenants, Eldon Alig, Richard Russell, Allen Greer, Richard Jefferson, John Morley, and Roderick Sheridan.

The officers sponsored the R.O.T.C. exhibit of infantry weapons and equipment at the Family Frolic. This display was both fascinating and meritable.

R.O.T.C.

Determinedly, yet willingly, at work, the R.O.T.C. labored successfully through the year. They were taught the art of gun handling, marching fundamentals, and soldier lingo. Judging from the Federal Inspection results, they remembered something of what they were taught. These diligent and durable democracy defenders deserve decided commendation. It is appropriate and worth-while to make mention of the new shooting gallery, an R.O.T.C. addition, constructed and located safely in the basement. We can safely predict, under Sergeant Neff's guiding hand and Cadet Major William Lemen's capable commands, our soldier boys will continue to march on and carry on superbly well again this spring.

FEDERAL INSPECTION

Nineteen hundred and forty was another definite banner year for the Reserve Officers' Training Corps of Shortridge High School. Under the excellent supervision of an able leader, Sergeant Neff, they triumphed in the Federal Inspection over all other city high schools and undoubtedly had one of the most successful and ideal battalions in the Middle West. Although they did not make a clean sweep of all the honors, losing the coveted Reserve Officers' Plaque to Technical, our Reserve Officers' Training Corps made an excellent showing. Not enough praise can be paid Albert Neff and his infantrymen, whose tedious training has made it possible for Shortridge to have a highly regarded battalion.

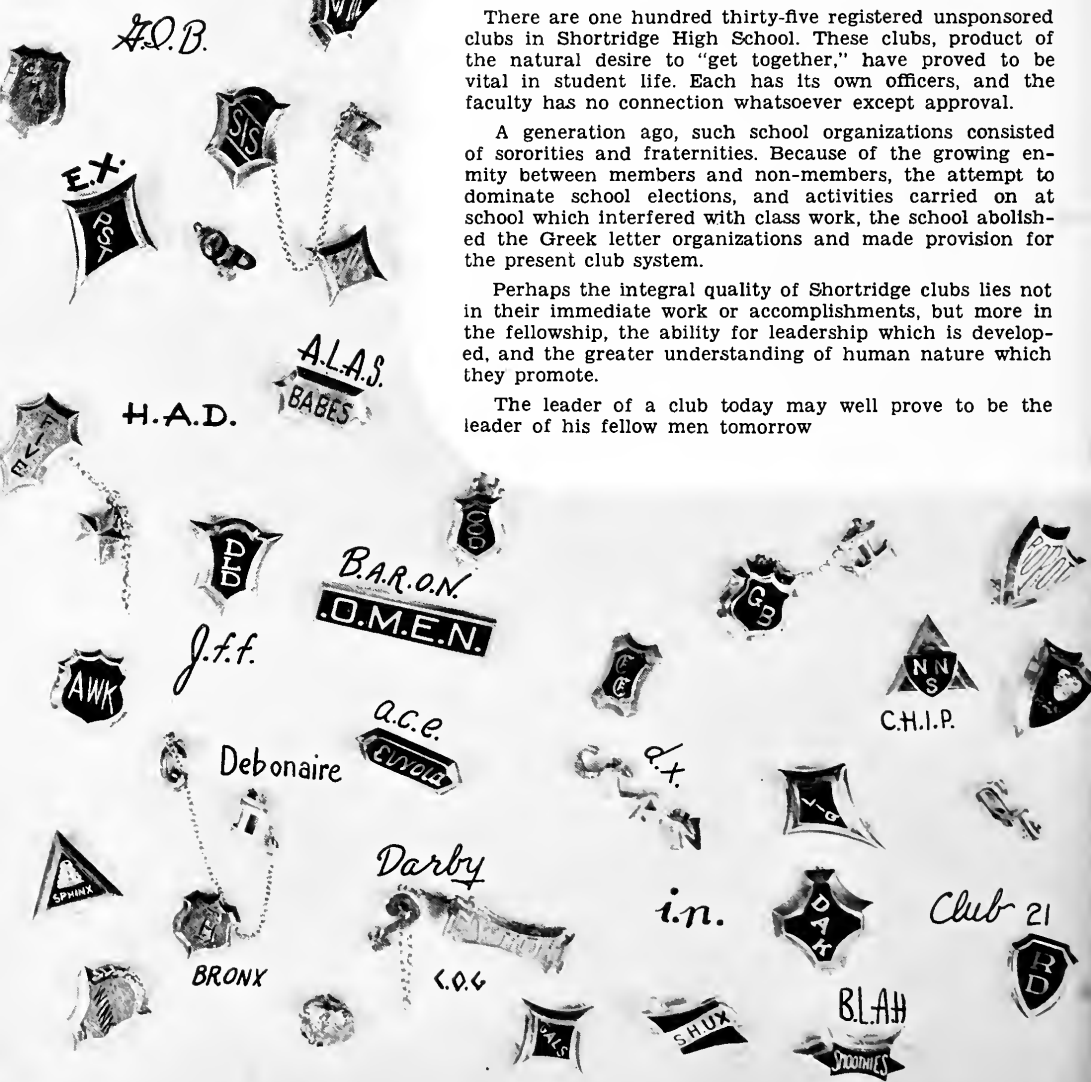

UNSPONSORED SOCIAL CLUBS

There are one hundred thirty-five registered unsponsored clubs in Shortridge High School. These clubs, product of the natural desire to "get together," have proved to be vital in student life. Each has its own officers, and the faculty has no connection whatsoever except approval.

A generation ago, such school organizations consisted of sororities and fraternities. Because of the growing enmity between members and non-members, the attempt to dominate school elections, and activities carried on at school which interfered with class work, the school abolished the Greek letter organizations and made provision for the present club system.

Perhaps the integral quality of Shortridge clubs lies not in their immediate work or accomplishments, but more in the fellowship, the ability for leadership which is developed, and the greater understanding of human nature which they promote.

The leader of a club today may well prove to be the leader of his fellow men tomorrow

FAMILY FROLIC

There was a sound of revelry by night in Shortridge halls as teachers, students, and friends thronged to the Family Frolic by happy hundreds on December sixth.

Along our Great White Way, the Baton Club's "Hour of Melody" caressed the ears of revelers, while in the "Bomb Shelter," a project of the Pre-Time Club, fun-seekers discovered a different sort of thrill. The Style Show transformed the usually staid library into a scene of glittering glamor as thirty-three girls and boys dazzled onlookers. The German, French, and Spanish Clubs were hosts at the International Casino, and the Boy and Girl Scout organizations held forth at the Gay Nineties Cafe. A capacity audience waxed enthusiastic about the Fiction Club's old fashioned melodrama, which made up in zest for what it lacked in art. The Drama League's fortune telling booth, the Fish Pond, and handwriting experts exerted their wiles on lovers of the recondite and occult, while ping pong, the dart game, and the Shooting Gallery required uncanny skill and an unerring eye. Free exhibits included the R.O.T.C. show, the Safety room, and the Stamp Club display, and the Cake Walk and the Coffee Shop served food to the famished. In the gymnasium, dancers swayed to the sometimes hot, sometimes dulcet strains of Chuck Smith's excellent orchestra. The Social Committee was in charge of selling tickets, while the Frolic's co-sponsors were Mrs. John L. Mueller, of the Parent-Teachers Association and Paul Seehausen and Walter Geisler of the faculty.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

Letters two feet high strung across the cafeteria mark the beginning of a school dance. The bandstand is raised in the gym, and the ticket committees begin to advertise. These Social Committee events attract Shortridgers who want to dance to good music and have a good time. Early in November, at the Presidential Prom, the dancers elected Mr. Willkie by a straw ballot. Patsy Bishop, chairman of the party, supervised the hanging of large pictures of Mr. Roosevelt and his opponent at each end of the gym. The decorations were carried out in a patriotic theme, and Tommy Arvin's orchestra provided the rhythm. To swell the Student Aid Fund, the Social Committee presented Chuck Smith and his orchestra at the Family Frolic. The 'Tween Term Twirl, under the leadership of Barbara Kiger and Fred Flickinger, introduced the music-making methods of a nickelodeon. The Bluebelle and Uglyman of Shortridge were chosen and inaugurated at the spring dance on April 25. Candidates were nominated by the Social Committee, and from these Shortridge chose the most popular boy and girl to wear the crowns. The money that the Social Committee earns is donated to the school for various uses. The dances provide social activities within the school for the student body. The activities of the club are enlivened by the sponsorship of Miss Mary Pratt. Officers for the year were Phil Huston, president; Patty Peterson, vice-president; Ann Cantwell, secretary; and Jim Murray, treasurer.

BLUEBELLE

Maxine "Pete" Snyder, a pert blonde queen, was chosen Bluebelle. She is president of the Shortie Club, vice-president of GALS, and belongs to the O.A.O., Mademoiselle, and "21" Clubs. Her artistic talents led her to join the Poetry and French Clubs. "Pete's" effervescent personality and good looks helped gain for her a place on the Social Committee, Junior pin and ring committee, and her positions as Home Room representative, chairman of the tree committee, and Class Prophet. Her crown of golden curls label her as queen of all. Opposing candidates were, top row: Patty Casler, Joan Denham, Jean Hixon; middle row: Barbara Kiger, Mary Ann Morrison, Bluebelle, Maxine Snyder; bottom row: Patty Peterson, Helen Reis, Ruth Sumner, and Jane Williams.

UGLYMAN

Bob Hendrickson, lean n' lanky lad of the fetching drawl, won over nine other Uglyman contestants. He jogged along the half-mile during the '39, '40 seasons. The fella has brains as well as brawn. The National Honor Society, S.P.Q.R., History, Math, and Fiction Clubs proudly claim him. Bob capably managed Wednesday's Echo. His novel fashion write-ups "for men only" have inspired that certain dash seen in the Shortridge joes' attire. The voting masses could not have picked more of a "right guy" for their Annual editor and Uglyman. Competitors were, top row: Nick Carter, Phil Huston, Jim Mitchell; middle row: Uglyman, Bob Hendrickson; Jim Murray, Alan Nolan, John Smith; bottom row: Dick Stackhouse, Dave Strack, and Bob Terry

FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES

When a new class enters Shortridge, it can look forward to a year of varied activities, beginning with a welcoming address from Mr. Buck. A course in school orientation known as "9B Conference" meets every other day during a regular class period. At this time freshmen are taught important facts about high school adjustment. The outstanding event during the semester, however, is the 9B talent show. This program is produced by the students themselves.

In his sophomore year the student is introduced not only to the extra-curricular clubs sponsored by the school, but to the many unsponsored social clubs, as well. Once membership is gained in these various organizations, the student begins really to feel a part of the school. Candidates for representatives to the Student Council from both the freshman and sophomore classes are appointed by the faculty. From these the Council elects two Freshmen and three sophomores with alternates.

These and other activities are designed to get the newcomer off to a good start on his four year journey through Shortridge.

CLASS OF 1942

On November 25, 1940, the Juniors went to the polls and chose the following officers to lead their class: Richard Stackhouse, president; Helen Reis, vice-president; Marcia Smith, secretary; Delores Steinsberger, treasurer; and Carolyn Jones, Vaudeville chairman. Fatsy Bishop, Carolyn Kiger, Allen Moorman, and Victor Cardarelli were elected to the Student Council positions, with Virginia Thompson and Joe Pratt acting as alternates.

Carolyn Jones lifted the curtain on the nineteenth edition of the Junior Vaudeville on February 14. The efficient work of the chairman, the class sponsors, Mrs. Nell Thomas and Enoch D. Burton, the act chairmen, act sponsors, and all who took part in the show was lauded by everyone who witnessed the final production.

On Friday night laurels went to the "Variety Act," featuring "Rusty" Smith and his orchestra. Co-chairmen were Gladys Heidenreich and Jane Weber. O. D. Thundere was sponsor.

Saturday night "Dreaming," with Susan Countryman and Jim Noonan, chairmen, and P. W. Holaday, sponsor, garnered top honors. This act highlighted ballet numbers and the piano numbers of Martin Marks.

Louanna McCreary headed the "Military Act." Mrs. Thelma Clarke was sponsor.

"Freaks, Pranks, and Henry Danks" centered around a carnival. Agnes Alig, Mary Ann Wells, and Doris Daley were chairmen and Miss Louise Wills was sponsor.

"Pan-American Review" was the colorful climax. Joyce Dean and Betty Alderson were co-chairmen, and Richard Woline and Walter C. Geisler, co-sponsors.

Intermission acts included songs by Jane Butler and Joe Lautner, comedy by Eleanor Iovine, and The Casey Jones Players in "Don't Send My Boy to Prison," with Al Nolan, Bill Rudy, Jim Mitchell, Phil Huston, and Jack Kautz.

Helen Reis and Marcia Smith had charge of the ushers. Individual awards went to Susan Countryman on Friday, and she and Jane Butler tied on Saturday, while Martin Marks won on both nights.

JUNIOR MINUTES CLASS

The Junior Class officers, elected on November 16, 1939, were James D. Mitchell, president; Rosemary Wilmeth, vice-president; Mary Ann Morrison, secretary; Virginia Van Geyt, treasurer; and Betty Jane Mitchell, vaudeville chairman. Chosen as Student Council representatives were Patty Peterson, Mary Anne Pearce, Jack Kautz, and Jim Fenstermaker with Betsy Maynard and Jim Southard as alternates. The pin and ring committee consisted of Alan Nolan, chairman, Jane Strohm, Marge Rosebrock, Maxine Snyder, Bob Dalrymple, and Bert Goldberg.

The great success of our Junior Vaudeville, which was presented on February 16 and 17 was due to the splendid work and co-operation of Betty Jane Mitchell, chairman, Mrs. Nell M. Thomas and Enoch D. Burton, class sponsors, and the many talented students participating in the show.

"Say It with Music," the winning act, was sponsored by Miss Charlotte Bruce and Miss Barbara Turner; Dorothy Ottinger and Doris Woods were co-chairmen. Other act chairmen were Ruth Ann Quick, Jean Bosson, and Emily Jean Lewis; Mickey Roth, Teddy Beall, and Mary Jane Hackemeyer; Nancy McIntosh; and Dorothy Byers and Betty Jean Miller.

Intermission acts were presented by Natalie Ratliff, accordion; Joan Miller, harp; Mary Marjorie Smead, violin; Noble de Roin, guitar; Bob Vernon, bass viol; and a tumbling act which was under the direction of Kathryn Hancock.

Individual awards went to Emily Jean Lewis for Friday night, to Shirley Pierce for Saturday night, and to Dick Pierce for both performances.

On Honor Day the Junior officers presented silver loving cups to Irving Ulrich, who led the Senior honor roll, and to David Baerncof who had a perfect A plus record.

On May 21, 1940, Bob Hendrickson was elected Annual editor, and at the same time the Senior Student Council representatives were chosen. These were Barbara Kiger, Mary Ann Morrison, Art Gipe, Jane Strohm, and Fred Rassmann. Ann Cantwell and Bob Parr were elected alternates.

OF 1941 SENIOR MINUTES

The Class of 1941 elected its Senior officers October 30, 1940. The successful candidates were Alan Nolan, president; Jane Strohm, vice-president; Patty Peterson, secretary; and John Smith, treasurer. The Annual editor, Bob Hendrickson, was elected the previous spring. The Senior Home Room representatives who constitute, with the class officers, the President's Cabinet, the governing body of the Senior class, were Frances Bloch, Florence Becker, Ann Cantwell, Fred Carpenter, Margaret Curle, Van Duncan, Martha Jean Haverstick, Bert Goldberg, Nancy Jefferson, Phil Huston, Barbara Kiger, George Kraeger, Al Levenson, Betsy Maynard, John McClure, Dorothy Ottinger, Mary Anne Pearce, Bob Parr, Jim Murray, Marjorie Rosebrock, Bill Scott, Joan Smith, Renate Smolenski, Maxine Snyder, Dave Strack, Kathleen Taylor, Rosemary Wilmeth, Mary Worsham, and Eleanor Williams.

The Christmas party was held December 19 in the school gym. Mr. Wilson, alias Santa Claus, presented various Seniors with appropriate gifts. There was a small floor show of Shortridge talent, and recorded dance music.

Jane Strohm, chairman of the colors committee, announced the class colors to be maroon and silver. The Bretzman Studio was selected to make the Annual pictures.

The Senior class presented its class play, "You Can't Take It With You," in Caleb Mills Hall, April 4. James D. Mitchell, Coral Lee Hendrickson, and Bill Scott starred in the clever version which Miss Eleanor Dee Theek ably directed.

The committee for Commencement arrangements was composed of Phil Huston, chairman; Kathryn Hancock, Jack Kautz, Margaret Kime, James G. Mitchell, Jean Moore, Mary Anne Pearce, Ray Vass, and Calvin Willis.

Vesper services were held in Caleb Mills Hall June 1. Class Day officers were Maxine Snyder, prophet; Betsey Turner, historian; Phil Huston, giftorian; and Gordon McKinney, will-maker. Class Day was held in Caleb Mills Hall, June 3.

Commencement exercises of the Class of 1941 were held June 4 in Cadle Tabernacle.

FATTY PETERSON, Secretary.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society has enjoyed an active and profitable year under the sponsorship of Miss Minnie Lloyd. Seventy-seven students were elected to the chapter by the faculty. William Evans was elected president of the organization and Joyce Smith, secretary-treasurer. Fred Rassmann was elected chairman of group A; Irving Sablosky, chairman of group B; and Phil Huston, chairman of group C. The chapter interested itself in war relief and undertook projects in order to help the war-torn countries. The boys collaborated with the Student Council to present a moving picture. The girls organized themselves into a group to knit clothing and afghans. Renate Smolenski was the chairman of this activity. The knitted articles and the proceeds from the moving picture were donated to the Red Cross and other relief. James D. Mitchell was the general chairman of a basketball game between members of the Varsity football team and members of the faculty given March 19. Tutoring and the compiling of records of Honor Society members of 1929 were other projects in which the members participated. On February 1 the Honor Society attended the Shortridge-Lebanon basketball game in the gym and afterward enjoyed a party arranged by groups A and B in the teachers' cafeteria. Group C planned a picnic for the three groups in the spring of the year. Mrs. Hope Nevitt, Miss Nora Thomas, and Mrs. Gertrude Weathers were faculty advisors.

TEACHERS ASSOCIATED WITH SENIOR PROJECTS

For four years Seniors look forward to the final activities of Commencement. Members of the faculty, who saw these students enter Shortridge as wide-eyed youngsters, amazed at the vastness of it all, found themselves in the midst of graduation plans for the Seniors.

As sponsor of the Senior Class, Joel W. Hadley directed the activities of the class as a whole and gave personal attention to individual problems. C. L. Morrison ably handled the class's finances. To them, the Seniors owe much of the success of their class.

The dramatic efforts of the Senior Class were realized in their colorful interpretation of "You Can't Take It With You." Miss Eleanor Dee Theek did excellent coaching for the production.

Miss Nora Thomas and Miss Dorothy Peterson, as co-sponsors of social activities, assisted the girls with Class Day exercises. They also made suggestions in the choices of graduation dresses and flowers for the Senior girls. Willard Gambold assisted the boys in preparing their Class Day program and in selecting appropriate suits for Commencement.

Mrs. Winifred Craig, assisted by Miss Helen Frazee, certified eligibility of Seniors for graduation. The scholarship committee, under Miss Reeta Clark, awarded the many available scholarships to the students who, through achievement, deserved the chance for further education.

In charge of the large reference and study halls used as Senior Home Rooms were Miss Mildred Foster, Miss Louise Wills, Miss Margaret Pierson, Miss Barbara Turner, Miss Dorthea Paige, Miss Dorothy Peterson, Miss Beth Wilson, Robert L. Campbell, C. M. Keesling, A. Atwood Bliss, Russell V. Sigler, and Howard Wright.

SENIOR ACTIVITIES

SENIOR WEEK

The final week of Senior year has a nostalgic charm which makes it the most unforgettable of Shortridge life to the Senior who is part of it. He attempts also to enjoy to the fullest his remaining high school days, till they culminate in the serene, wistful beauty of the graduation ceremony.

May 29 was the last day of regular school for the Senior class, and it was also upon that day that the Annuals were distributed to expectant subscribers.

At four o'clock on Sunday, June first, Dr. Logan Hall spoke to members of the class and their parents in a quietly impressive Vesper Service at Caleb Mills Hall.

The final class meeting convened in the auditorium on Monday, June second, at nine in the morning. Here last business was discussed, report cards issued, and final commencement plans were made.

On Tuesday, June third, the body held its last fling, with a hilarious Class Day program. After the officers had read the will, distributed gifts, read the class history, and made the prophecy, first the boys and then the girls produced scintillating and uproarious stunts.

Graduation was held Wednesday evening, June fourth, in Cadle Tabernacle, and no Senior will ever forget the ceremonies of that warm, bright spring evening, made doubly significant because it was the last commencement directed by Mr. Buck.

FOOTBALL

With seven experienced lettermen to form the nucleus of a potentially great eleven, experts foresaw an invincible squad dominating the Shortridge gridiron in 1940. The dopesters expected a great deal, and the blue and white-clad warriors concluded their grueling, nine-game campaign with a record which won the acclaim of all but the most optimistic. The record of total scoring tells more graphically than words the latent power of this aggregation, for the team rolled up 138 points during the season, while it limited its opponents to but 47, little more than one third of the Shortridge total.

From the second play of the first game, when Jim Mitchell twisted his way through the entire Brazil team for sixty yards and a score, no one in the gaily attired crowd at the Shortridge field doubted the outcome of the initial encounter. The Blue Devils ran the final score up to 35 for Shortridge, Brazil 0.

The second game, played under the arcs of Southport's Roosevelt Stadium, was even more favorably decisive. Captain Allerdice established something of a precedent when he too scored on the second play of the game, but a pair of Juniors, Casselman and Shenk, really stole the show that night with marathons of 95 and 100 yards respectively on pass interceptions.

The third time was the charm — for the opponents. The game was with Withrow of Cincinnati, and the big, experienced Tigers went back home with a merited 19-6 victory to their credit.

The next two weeks saw two long road trips. On the first Traugott and Benjamin successfully rode the Jefferson of Lafayette Broncho — and accounted for a 12-0 Shortridge victory. Two long passes snatched a 14-0 victory for Central of Fort Wayne. This game was one of the freak variety in which we outrushed, outcharged, outplayed, in fact out-everythinged our opponents but failed to outscore them.

The first city series contest was at Washington's field. In the final quarter Mitchell broke a score deadlock, scoring on a cleverly executed reverse-lateral pass play.

That point-after-touchdown proved to be our nemesis in the next two games. We were edged out in these two heart-crushers by identical 7-6 scores by Cathedral and Crawfordsville.

Then came that glorious finale to Coach Robert L. Nipper's first ten years as gridiron mentor. We can, of course, be referring only to that spectacular 20-0 dose of shellac with which our boys coated the warriors of the ancient arch-rival, Tech. No loyal Shortridge rooter, who braved the elements that memorable November fifteenth, will soon forget how signal caller Nolan blocked big Reed's punt and how all-state selection Kraeger scooped it up for our first score. Equally unforgettable were the sparkling sprints of backs Mitchell and Benjamin, while the eternally unsung heroes who played the ends and the line shattered Tech's offense and defense by their crushing drive and their inspired refusal to permit a green-clad runner to pass them.

FRESHMAN AND RESERVE FOOTBALL

Shortridge may well be proud of her freshman and reserve football teams, coached by Tom Woods and Fred (everyone calls him "Knut") Rouch respectively, each of which enjoyed their first undefeated season for a considerable while. Tom Forshee and George Lewis, backs, and "Lard" Freihofer and Perin Little of the front line showed the best stuff for the Junior Varsity, while ball handlers Jim Allerdice and Larry Hare, plus linemen Fred Falendar and Jim Cooley might easily make the Varsity in '41 in one jump on the basis of the prowess they displayed as rhinies.

BASKETBALL

A diamond in the rough most aptly characterizes Shortridge's '40-'41 basketball squad. Packed with talent which included three starters from last year's sectional championship team, Dave Strack, Chuck Benjamin, and Bryan West, and another letterman, Bob Paddock (All-Sectional, '41), the Blue Devil Snipers failed to reach their peak in time to get moving in tourney competition.

Playing the best opposition the state could offer, the Satans chalked up thirteen victories in twenty-one starts. The winning column included victories over the highly rated quintets of Shelbyville, Greenfield, and Lebanon.

Led by Strack and Paddock, they tripped Greenfield and Noblesville in quick succession to open the season's festivities. In the following encounter they were stopped by Greencastle in a close scrap.

Rallying after the Greencastle defeat, the Satans turned on the steam and won five out of the next six games. Shelbyville, Southport, Tech, Jeff, and Cathedral bit the dust, while Martinsville reared its ugly head as the lone defeat.

Against the tougher opponents scheduled for the last half of the season, the Blue Devils lost five games. However, the highest margin of defeat was only seven points.

They lost a heart breaker to Columbus 32 to 31. Then came Rushville, which later upset Anderson in the Semi-finals, and to these potential giant killers the Satans let one slip by two points, 35 to 37.

Following these man-eaters, Crawfordsville nicked the Blues in another close scrap. Lebanon and Manual fell before the Shortridge forces in the next two encounters as they got the scent of victory again.

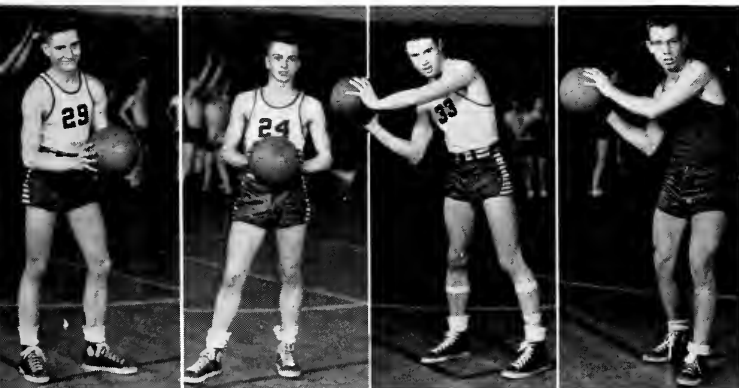

The last two contests were grudge games with our old rivals, Lapel and Anderson. It was hard to take, but both of these battles were lost.

This ended the scheduled games. The Blue Devils started off in the Sectionals by whipping Lawrence and New Augusta without stopping for breath. When Shortridge finally met Decatur, the county champs, the Hawks got a corner on the point-getting early and held it all afternoon.

This was a dark game for the Shortridge fans but it produced a thrill that they will probably remember forever. It happened when Shortridge was behind 9 to 2 in the second quarter. Chuck Benjamin, on the bench nursing a sprained ankle, came into the game and sparked a tooth and nail rally that pulled the Satans up to 10 all at the half.

Letters were won by Chuck Benjamin, Dave Strack, Bob Paddock, Bryan West, Bob Harris, Bill Swaim, and Bernie Casselman. Others on the Varsity were Ingle, Melson, and Hummel.

Easily the steadiest man on the team, Dave Strack was awarded the George V. Underwood trophy as the most valuable man on the team.

TRACK

With but two returning lettermen, Captain Bryan West and Russell Imbler, not too great things were expected of Don R. Knight's 1941 track team. A third letterman, Bob Nigh, was sidelined with ill health and Dashman Imbler was forced to favor an ankle broken during the winter. But Coach Knight had several surprise packages in store for him in the persons of George Kraeger, Bill Swaim, Berk Nott, Bill Strawmeyer, and Art Pens. At this writing our cindermen have taken three meets, over Jefferson of Lafayette, Crawfordsville, and Manual, were but two points behind the winner, Tech, in the city meet, and were second only to Fort Wayne's omnipotent North Side in that huge track and field carnival, the Southport Relays.

Thus, with much of the season still remaining, the undefeated Kraeger had already an incredible put of over 52 feet and was co-favored to win the state championship in the shot-put. Swaim had a time of 23.9 seconds in the low hurdles to his credit, which is just one-half second behind the fastest time yet recorded in the state this year. He and West had been scooting over the high timbers for plenty of points.

The surprising Blue Devils were nosed out by Tech in the sectional meet, 42½ to 41, but qualified five men, Nott, Benjamin, West, Swaim, and Kraeger for the state finals.

GOLF

As always, Simon Roache's proteges made the links fairly sizzle in '41. After the report cards of May 3 had taken an overly healthy commission, the squad consisted of Dick Stackhouse, George O'Neil, Bob Smith, Dick Herin, and Paul Stiles, shooting in that order. Mainstays for two years, Stackhouse and O'Neil were constant victors in their matches, both sneaking into the select 70's with amazing frequency. Two long trips to Culver were fatal, the prepsters clipping us to the tune of $12\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$, and $10\frac{1}{2}$ to $7\frac{1}{2}$. Tech eked out a $12\frac{1}{2}$ to $11\frac{1}{2}$ victory, while Anderson shaded us $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$. On the other side of the ledger we trimmed Southport 12-0, Franklin 15-0, and Howe twice, 11-1 and $10\frac{1}{2}$ - $1\frac{1}{2}$.

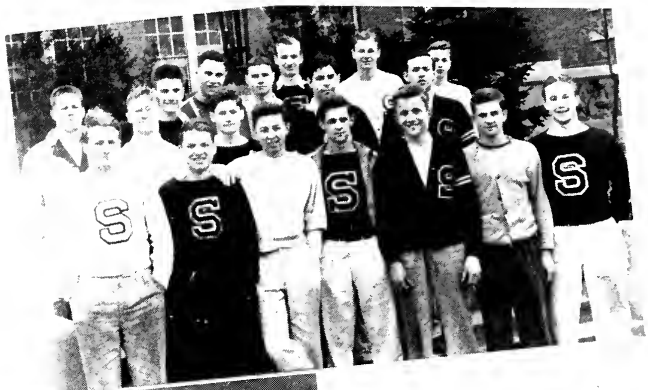

TENNIS

Under the tutelage of a new coach, and with the prowess of several returning veterans, the 1941 tennis squad was in the midst of a great season when the Annual went to press. The new coach is Thomas Wilson of the history department, and the boys with experience include Charlie Tichenor, Bob Wood, Bob Paddock, Harold Morgan, and Marshall Samms. Sophomore Tichenor, who is the sixth ranking boy player in the country, holds down number one spot when the boys play their matches. He is followed in order by Jack Sunderland, Joe Boleman, Wood, and Paddock. Other courtmen who round out the teams are Samms, Dave Scudder, Dick Wood, Harold Morgan, and Major Willis. In its first two matches the Blue team whitewashed Burris of Muncie 7-0, and vanquished Tech 6-1, a most creditable beginning.

SWEATER GIRLS

The achievement of winning a Shortridge sweater, the highest award in girls' athletics, is gained by participating in such activities as baseball, basketball, hemingway, hockey, swimming, tennis, volleyball, and posture and efficiency contests. Since the number of points offered in any of the activities never exceeds 100, and is generally less, both perseverance and ability are necessary factors in meriting this coveted honor.

The sweater girls this year include Barbara Whelden, Virginia Martin, Louanna McCreary, Martha Moore, and Margaret Sigler.

GIRLS' SPORTS

The annual fall tennis tournament is held under the direction of Miss Kathryn Thompson, who sponsors the Philateron Club and the Archery Club. She also coaches freshman basketball, advanced volleyball, and badminton, a sport which has recently been added to the list of extra-curricular activities.

Miss Eleanor Richwine coaches hemingway, advanced and varsity basketball, freshman volleyball, and baseball. She is the sponsor of the Girls' Bowling League.

Hockey, freshman basketball, and freshman volleyball are coached by Mrs. Thelma Clarke. She is, in addition, the sponsor of the Junior and Senior Equestrienne Clubs.

PHILATERON

The foremost girls' athletic organization of Shortridge is the Philateron Club, a chapter of the Girls' Athletic Association of Indiana. Membership in the club is limited to girls who have received 500 points by participation in various extra-curricular sports.

Two social meetings were held this year, a party at Christmas and a picnic in the spring. The officers are Betty Willingham, president; Betty Graves, vice-president; Mary Eller, secretary; and Connie Green, treasurer.

BASKETBALL

The varsity basketball team triumphed in both games over the Deaf School. The first game was held on February 14, at Shortridge with Shortridge winning 31-22. Betty Willingham led the girls with 10 points while Betty Schneider was outstanding as guard. On February 24, playing at the Deaf School, Shortridge again won 34-23. This time Betty Lewis contributed 14 points and Jane Haramy led as guard. The girls on the Varsity first string are Betty Willingham, acting captain, Betty Lewis, Louanna McCreary, Virginia Martin, Betty Schneider, Jane Haramy, Marjorie Gorham, Edith Peters, and Betty Graves. Miss Richwine is their coach.

HOCKEY

The varsity hockey team after many spirited practices defeated Washington 5-2 for the second time in ten years. The team was composed of Betty Willingham, center-forward; Margery Gorham, half-back; Rosemary Wanner, full-back; Connie Green, goalie and captain; Betty Alderson, inner; Phyllis Ehrhardt, half-back; Mary Eiler, wing; Sally Davis, wing; Betty Schneider, wing; Betty Lewis, inner; Martha Moore, full-back; Joan Stelzel, half-back; Barbara Whelden, full-back; and Martha Scott, inner.

The team went to Earlham to see the United States Touring Team play Earlham. They participated in the practice of techniques and learned the latest fundamentals and angles of the game.

TENNIS CHAMPS

Under the sponsorship of Miss Kathryn Thompson, the 1940-1941 tennis tournament got under way in September with sixty-four enthusiastic aspirants. The competition was narrowed to two girls in the finals, Betty Lewis having bowed to Louanna McCreary, and Betty Willingham having triumphed over Margaret Sigler. Louanna McCreary, a Junior, captured the girls' title for the second consecutive year by winning the last two out of three sets.

HEMINGWAY

Edith Peters, Marilyn Scovell, Charlotte Grosskopf, and Joanne Lawson were captains of the 1940 intramural hemingway teams. At the end of the tournament, team III, captained by Edith Peters, won top honors. Members of this team received S. H. S. monograms. Miss Eleanor Richwine was the coach.

VOLLEYBALL

A team captained by Louanna McCreary, winning eight and losing two games, was the victor in this year's intramural volleyball tournament. Betty Willingham's team was runner-up. Other team captains were Rosemary Wanner, Betty Lewis, Marge Gorham, and Barbara Whelden. Each girl on the winning team received seventy-five athletic points and an S.H.S. monogram. Miss Kathryn Thompson is the sponsor of the volleyball league.

EFFICIENCY CONTEST

Annually one student out of each physical education class is rewarded for her efficiency in performing on apparatus. The contest occurs in the fall of each year, and the winners receive for their outstanding accomplishments one hundred points toward their sweaters and English S monograms.

The following were this fall's win-

THE SHORTRIDGE SPORTS PARADE

Can any red-blooded sports fan think of any greater thrill than to curl up in an easy chair before a warm fire and listen for hours to the never ceasing experiences of some old-timer who has seen them come and go for nearly half a century? Who could find boredom among the repertoire of some ancient football coach, or baseball manager's sports yarns? Here at Shortridge, athletes have yielded tales of glory and defeat. There are heart breaks and there are victorious cheers hidden away in dust laden archives, all but lost except in the minds of some of Shortridge's old timers.

For instance, there was a time back in 1930, when a young man by the name of Kenneth Peterman had just taken over the coaching duties at Shortridge and in his first year as basketball mentor led the Satans into the Butler fieldhouse and over every barrier until the semi-final game with the Washington Hatchets. The downstaters were top-heavy favorites to best the Blue Devils that afternoon. This was Washington's second trip to the semi-finals . . . the last time they had walked off with the state championship and the same team was back to retain the crown. The sweltering multitudes that were present were behind the unheralded Capitol City crew to a man, and the Blue Devils were keyed for the battle. From the opening gun, the Satans took command of the play, but Washington was always in striking distance, and the half ended with Shortridge on top by only one point. Then followed the wildest fourth quarter seen in many a day at the State finals. The Hatchets moved away to a five point lead with four minutes to play. The crowd sensed that Shortridge had folded up under the pressure. Then came three rapid fire baskets from far out on the court, and the Blue Devils led with only a minute to play. The crowd held its breath. Could this upstart Shortridge protect a one point lead and overthrow the mighty Washington courtmen? Then Herman Berns, captain and fancy dan pivot man for Shortridge canned a pivot shot from the foul stripe and the game seemed in the proverbial bag. But what happened in the next twenty seconds no one but a giant negro center by the name of deJernet can rightly tell. At the center jump (in effect in those days) he stole the tip from Berns, took his own tip, and dribbled under for a basket for the defending champs. With ten seconds left in the ball game the dusky pivot man tapped the ball to a teammate, broke for the basket, took a perfect pass and dumped in the winning shot as the gun sounded. It was a defeat for Shortridge to be sure, but who can say it was not worthy of mention here?

Gridiron Coach Bob Nipper likes to tell this one. Back in '36 he had a bunch of boys who were good ball players but they did not toe the line and disgusted with the varsity eleven, Nip fired the whole first team and went up against Manual that Friday with a team of Juniors and Sophomores so green they hardly knew what the Varsity uniforms looked like. "Why some of 'em were no bigger than a grasshopper," Coach Nipper alleged in speaking of the size of his makeshift team. Manual was pretty tough that year, and many Shortridgers looked with despair at the line-ups just before kickoff time. The Redskins made it plenty hot for Shortridge for three quarters and with about five minutes of play remaining, the game was deadlocked in a scoreless tie. Then little Cary Wey intercepted a Manual pass and jaunted 75 yards for the only marker of the tilt as the Blue Devils won 7 to 0, much to everyone's surprise and joy.

There are some pretty interesting tales from the cinder trails too. Don Knight, track coach, can tell you of some great stars and some dismal failures. Bud Underwood, a leading timber-topper of several seasons ago was both. Underwood was one of the finest hurdlers Knight had ever seen and the lanky protege was living up to every expectation of his coach. His senior year in the high hurdles, his specialty, young Bud was never beaten in a race. He went through sectional competition, on up to the race of the State finals and there while in front, and on the way to winning the State diadem, Bud fell and failed to place. It was the first and the last Shortridge hurdle he ever missed.

Then there was Jack Brown, the Jack Brown, who received sophomore letters in football, basketball, and a junior letter in track, and was a great hurdler as well. In his senior year Jack went into the finals of the State championship in the high hurdles, and was finally beaten by a colored boy, Abrams, from Froebel of Gary, who with Jesse Owens holds the world's high school record in the hurdles, and who won the State championship in the high and low hurdles all four years. Even with that kind of competition to toy with, Brown was only a few feet in back of the negro flash.

Yes, the old-timers have the edge on us youngsters. They have so many good times to remember that they never think of the bad!
